For questions 198 – 200, read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below it.

Unhappiness and discontent spring not only from poverty. Man is strange creature, fundamentally different from other animals. He has horizons, invincible hopes, creative energies, spiritual powers. If they are left undeveloped and unsatisfied, he may have all the comforts which wealth can give, but will still feel that life is not worth while. The great humanist writers, Shaw and Wells, Arnold Bennett and Galsworthy, who are regarded as the prophets of the dawn, expose the foibles, inconsistencies and weaknesses of modern life, but they ignore the deeper currents and sometimes misrepresent them. At any rate, they give nothing in their place. In the void left by removal of tradition, morality and religion, others are putting in vague sentiments of race and power.
